

AMERICA'S BROKEN BUDGET PROCESS

NO BUDGET NO PLAN

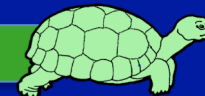

From 1976 until 1999, Congress had never failed to pass a budget. Over the last 18 years, however, it failed 9 times to pass a budget, with only 1 budget passed in the last 6 years.

SPENDING BILLS ALWAYS LATE

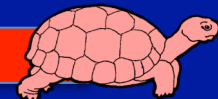

The annual spending process has been completed on time only 4 times in the past 40 years. In fact, the average delay for appropriations bills has more than doubled.

1.3 months late

1974-2002

2.9 months late

2002 - 2016

Until we fix America's broken budget process, we will not be able to address runaway government spending and our exploding national debt. A better budget process will help put our nation on a more sustainable fiscal path.
